So, my question is, how can I do to solve this problem? My camera works fine during simulation and it allows me to create system. A: Copy the R25SP2 version of the mathematic kernel from here. It should work with the older kernels as well. ROOT used to do a version of this anyway, so it's to be expected. Anyway, you have found an old bug in a workaround, but you can also give it a kick by comparing against the newer kernel. The present invention relates to medical machines, specifically to an improved handgrip module adapted for use with a medical machine such as a microwave ablation system. Microwave ablation is a minimally invasive method used to treat primary and secondary liver malignancies as well as metastatic tumors. Microwave energy is transmitted into the body through a catheter that is inserted through a natural body opening (e.g., liver lobe through the patient's skin) to the tumor. The microwave energy is dissipated as heat, and causes the tumor to die. The procedure is typically done on an outpatient basis with minimal to no abdominal pain and little to no recovery time. Re: Are there any limitations to share folders? Re: Are there any limitations to share folders? You can't share a folder on a hard drive that isn't a network folder. If you open the window you should see Shared Folders. That's where you'd access a shared folder that's on a different computer. I have a bunch of older computers I used to use. They all had blank hard drives and they only had 1 network connection. I had to use a wired connection to download the latest updates because there was no network connection. Re: Are there any limitations to share folders? Thanks for the tips, I can share the folder using my ipod and on the PC. It's just a couple of days later my question is Why can't the computer I'm trying to access them on create a shortcut on the desktop. I need to access the shared folders on another PC on the network. Re: Are there any limitations to share folders? Hi jtokruk how did you set it up as it looks like you don't have standard setting enabled. I have done this 3 times now and I get the same error. Do you have any suggestions? I really need to get these shared folders on the computer to work. f988f36e3a
